

Visit Campbell County and Liberty Mountain Snowflex Centre

Located atop Liberty University's serene 5,000-acre mountain, the Liberty Mountain Snowflex Centre is the country's premier point for year-round skiing, snowboarding and tubing. Composed of beginner, intermediate and advanced slopes and a two-story lodge, this high-performance playground is the first of its kind in the United States.

The concept originated in 2005 when the university began looking at creative ways to utilize its mountain property. The solution was to build an outdoor recreational complex accessible to Liberty and the general public.

Designed by England's Briton Engineering, the park's sleek slopes are made with the industry's most innovative terrain technology — Snowflex. LMSC caters to snow sport enthusiasts of all skill levels, and serves as the ideal training ground in the offseason.

A funhouse for freestylers, the facility also features an elevated cornice drop, triple kickers and a colossal quarter pipe.
