Virginia Counties Recognized for Model Programs

RICHMOND (August 5, 2022)—The Virginia Association of Counties (VACo) is pleased to announce the 29 recipients of the 2022 Achievement Awards, which recognize excellence in local government programs. VACo received 100 submissions.

Winning entries focused on addressing issues of the pandemic, connecting citizens, and other challenges that counties face daily.

20th Anniversary of the Achievement Awards Video

“I want to thank all who participated in the 20th year of the Achievement Awards,” VACo Executive Director Dean Lynch said. “This is an anniversary year, and I was encouraged to see that we had 100 submissions, our third-highest total ever. This tells me that the VACo Achievement Awards program’s mission of identifying and celebrating the innovative work by local government officials continues to resonate with our counties. We thank all who participated and recognize those who won an award.”

Tedd Povar, retired Associate Director of the Virginia Institute of Government; Dr. Sheryl Bailey, Visiting Professor of Practice at Virginia Tech and former Chesterfield County
Deputy County Administrator; and Larry Land, retired VACo Director of Policy Development, served as judges for this year’s statewide competitive awards program.

Chesterfield County and its Connecting All Community Residents to Public Schools program won this year’s Best Achievement Award.

“Connecting All Community Residents to Public Schools is a program we need now,” Dr. Bailey said. “Chesterfield County believes its schools can be a foundation for a successful community but with 65 percent of households without children 18 or younger, the county knew it had to expand its outreach to the greater community. The results have been very positive and has proven correct the adage ‘it takes a village to raise a child.’ I speak for the judges when I say we are honored to give this program the Best Achievement Award.”

The judges also selected a Best Small County Achievement Award (50,000 or less population) and a Best Large County Achievement Award. Orange County and its Whole Blood Project program captured the Best Small County Achievement Award while Prince William County and its Early Diversion Program in Domestic Violence Cases program earned the Best Large County Achievement Award.

“Congratulations to Orange County for winning its third-ever Achievement Award, and for such an excellent program,” Land said. “To deliver the best possible outcomes for patients, the Orange County Fire & EMS Department carried lifesaving ‘whole blood’ units aboard on-duty response vehicles. This project required extensive training as well as other new protocols and procedures. But now Orange County can provide treatment quickly to help prevent a leading cause of patient mortality – blood loss.”

Povar, who has served as judge since the Achievement Awards inception in 2003, said Prince William County’s winning program reflects an important criteria for the VACo Achievement Awards. “As judges, we look for how a county uses innovation or ideas to solve a problem,” Povar said. “Prince William County’s program has an excellent success score, including a zero percent recidivism rate and 98 percent of those charged accept the diversion opportunity instead of going to court or possibly trial. Congratulations to Prince William County for a tremendous program and for continuing to be a leader in the VACo Achievement Awards program.”

Chesterfield County tops the all-time Achievement Awards list with 44. Chesterfield County has won an award in each year of the 20-year history of the program. Henrico County is second on the list with 38 Achievement Awards while Loudoun County is third with 27.

The VACo Achievement Awards is a competitive program open to local government members of the association.
Happy 20th Anniversary VACo Achievement Awards!

Juvenile Detention Study Advisory Committee Meets in Roanoke County

The Commission on Youth’s advisory committee for its study of the effectiveness and efficiency of Virginia’s juvenile detention centers held its second meeting on July 26 in Roanoke County. This study was prompted by the declining numbers of youth housed in juvenile detention centers and is exploring potential consolidation or repurposing of unused capacity in juvenile detention centers. VACo’s Executive Director, Dean Lynch, is serving on the Commission’s advisory committee, which was convened to assist with the study.

Senator David Marsden reiterated in his opening remarks that the care received by youth in the juvenile detention system is “first rate,” and that the state-local partnership providing these services is the system’s strength. He indicated his interest in working with the Administration on the issue and in approaching the issue of consolidation through incentives for localities rather than mandates and in reinvesting any savings in addressing gaps in services across the state.

Elizabeth Spinney, Policy Analyst with the Commission on Youth, presented an overview of the results of a survey of juvenile detention center directors. The survey captured information on the age of facilities, services provided within centers (including programming provided by community-based groups and volunteers), potential alternatives to detention, and whether detention centers could repurpose unused space for additional residential or community-based programming. Additional data to be gathered include more information on the home ZIP codes of youth housed in detention centers and more detail on transportation costs, as well as a better understanding of the increasing needs of youth being served. A representative of the Virginia Juvenile Detention Association and the Director of the Department of Juvenile Justice, Amy Floriano, remarked on the severity of offenses being committed by juveniles in recent months.

Representatives from a local nonprofit organization discussed their work to serve survivors of human trafficking and their pursuit of a potential partnership with the local juvenile detention center. The nonprofit, Straight Street, and the local detention center have held some preliminary discussions about repurposing some of the detention center’s currently unused space as a site where potential clients could be stabilized and assessed; however, challenges for such a project include licensing requirements and renovation costs. Will Egen, Senior Policy Analyst for the Commission on Youth, explained the federal and state laws and regulations governing the operation of juvenile detention centers. Co-locating different types of facilities on the same property can be permissible (for example, a secure facility and a non-secure youth shelter), although another licensing entity may be involved in the process (for example, some facilities would be licensed by the Department of Social Services or the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services).

Issues discussed by the advisory committee included the expected increase in travel expenditures for sheriffs if facilities were consolidated; the need to support family visitation; and the importance of locality buy-in for repurposing unused capacity in detention centers. The meeting concluded with a tour of the Roanoke Valley Juvenile Detention Center. The advisory committee’s next meeting is scheduled for August 16 in Fairfax County.

Franklin County, Virginia – Leland Mitchell, Franklin County Board of Supervisors member and Chairman of the Franklin County Broadband Authority, passed away on July 30. Mr. Mitchell was the longest-serving member of the current Board of Supervisors where this past January he began his fifth term.

Mr. Mitchell was first elected to the Board of Supervisors representing the Snow Creek District in November of 2005 where he has continued to serve since taking office in January of 2006. Mr. Mitchell’s colleagues elected him as Chairman of the Board of Supervisors in 2020 where he helped navigate the County during the early months of the Covid pandemic.

During his tenure on the Board, “Mr. Mitchell became a champion for the deployment of high-speed broadband within the rural areas of Franklin County while serving as Chairman of the Broadband Authority where he most recently worked with his colleagues to secure approximately $25 million in state and federal funding to now begin connecting thousands of homes and businesses with high speed internet throughout the County,” stated Mr. Ronnie Thompson, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

In addition to broadband connectivity, Supervisor Leland Mitchell worked with his local and regional colleagues to welcome Franklin County as a member of the Western Virginia Water Authority, thereby securing a public system for water and wastewater utilities.

Board Chairman Ronnie Thompson said, “Supervisor Leland Mitchell was a gentleman with a steadying presence on the Board during the great recession helping guide the fiscal policy of the County to ensure the employees and citizens of Franklin County always took priority. Mr. Mitchell was a strong supporter of Franklin County and measured the needs of the Snow Creek district with the needs of the entire County,” adds Thompson.

During his tenure on the Board, “Mr. Michell also kept a keen eye on the County’s finances where he strived to promote fiscal polices in helping to maintain the County’s high bond ratings” stated Chris Whitlow, County Administrator. “It was a pleasure to work with Leland through the years and he will be missed,” added Mr. Whitlow.
New Kent County Supervisors approve speed zone ordinance, agree to purchase Makemie Woods

By Robb Johnson | New Kent-Charles City Chronicle

The following story was reprinted with permission from the New Kent-Charles City Chronicle. Blue Line Solutions is a VACo Premier Partner.

An ordinance to allow speed cameras to capture violators in school and work zones in New Kent County passed Monday night.

New Kent County supervisors approved the measure 5-0 at the regular board meeting, which yielded only two individuals at its public hearing. Both speakers favored the measure.

At the July 27 work session, New Kent Sheriff J. Joe McLaughlin Jr. recommended the proposal as part of safety measures on the highway. In particular, he focused on school zones as Quinton Elementary School in the western part of the county will be operational this fall.

The sheriff is working with Blue Line Solutions on the project. The company uses photo enforcement on school and work zones, with citations automatically being issued when a vehicle travels through that area at 11 miles per hour or faster than the posted speed limit. A fine of $15 is levied for each violation by state code, but a civil fee of up to $85 can be imposed by the locality.

A recent five-day study conducted by Blue Line Solutions revealed that 25,000 vehicles passed the new... elementary school. Of that number, approximately 14,000 vehicles exceeded the speed limit by 11 miles per hour than what is expected to be a proposed 25-miles per hour zone.

With the ordinance approved, Blue Line Solutions will take the next step by providing a 30-day warning period before live summons go out. Along with the warning, a 90-day study will take place with the intent to see speed reduce once violations are issued.

At the work session, McLaughlin emphasized that safety for citizens and drivers was his top priority.

“This is purely about traffic safety,” he commented at the work session. “It has nothing to do with revenue. It has to do with vehicle crashes. If you come through that area with a violation, you earned it.”

While many people took to both sides on social media on the issue, only two people appeared in person on the matter.

“I dislike speeders and have no pity for them if they get caught,” commented Larry Reynolds. “When I was living in Maryland when speed cameras were introduced, Maryland was not being forthright about cost, revenue sharing, and maintenance.

“If speed cameras are installed in New Kent, please learn from Maryland’s mistake and publish all the details about the cost involved and how they are maintained,” he concluded.

New Kent leaders took action shortly afterwards with a favorable recommendation.

In another matter handled by New Kent’s Board of Supervisors, the group unanimously agreed to purchase Makemie Woods in the amount of $1,025,000.

At the July regular board meeting, supervisors agreed to a sales agreement with the Presbyterian of Eastern Virginia Inc. to purchase the 274 acres of land. The area began seeing financial difficulty in 2012 when it was failing to draw attention to host camps and retreats.

In May 2022, county leaders denied an attempt by Travis Hall and his Faith Recovery program to bring a facility to Makemie Woods that focused on drug rehabilitation. But that plan did not favor supervisors as they cited a lack of accountability on the organization’s part and the impact on small businesses.

From there, negotiations by County Administrator Rodney Hathaway about purchasing the area grew. A public hearing was required by law as the acquisition of the property accounts for more than one percent of the county’s FY2022-23 fiscal budget. No speakers addressed the board during the public hearing.

With the approval to purchase the property, Hathaway is hoping to use the area for more recreational opportunities in the eastern part of the county.
Shine a light of hope and support for veterans

OPERATION GREEN LIGHT FOR VETERANS: COUNTY TOOLKIT

America’s counties have a long and proud history of serving our nation’s veterans, a legacy that continues to this day as we work with our federal, state and local partners to ensure that the former service members in our communities have access to the resources they need to thrive.

This coming Veterans Day, the National Association of Counties (NACo) and the National Association of County Veteran Service Officers (NACVSO) invite the nation’s 3,069 counties, parishes, and boroughs to join Operation Green Light and show support for veterans by lighting our buildings green from November 7 to November 13. By shining a green light, county governments and our residents will let veterans know that they are seen, appreciated and supported.

To show support, counties can use this template to pass a resolution declaring your county’s participation in Operation Green Light.
The Behavioral Health Commission dedicated its July 26 meeting to exploring the implementation of STEP-VA, receiving briefings from the state Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services (DBHDS) as well as from two Community Services Boards (CSBs), representing urban and rural perspectives. STEP-VA is a phased initiative that requires nine services to be offered by all CSBs when fully implemented. Common themes among the three presentations included the challenges posed by workforce shortages and the importance of data collection and other administrative infrastructure to successful implementation of the new services.

Dr. Lisa Jobe-Shields of DBHDS explained that the Department has worked with CSBs to implement the nine services that make up the STEP-VA initiative in three phases. Phase 1 is the planning stage, in which definitions and metrics are finalized; in Phase 2, services begin to be implemented, although the Department’s oversight is of a qualitative nature at this stage, since data is not yet considered reliable. Phase 3 represents full implementation and DBHDS is able to use validated data to verify that the service is being implemented in accordance with shared definitions. CSBs are either in Phase 2 or Phase 3 for five services of the STEP-VA array; the final three steps, case management, psychiatric rehabilitation, and care coordination, are in Phase 1, with initial implementation scheduled for July 2023 and full implementation scheduled to begin July 1, 2024. (Crisis services were discussed separately, as there are major investments in the crisis system, such as implementation of the Marcus Alert, that are outside the STEP-VA framework.) The state is working to upgrade its data systems, using federal funding, to allow receipt of data directly from CSBs’ electronic health records. Dr. Jobe-Shields presented information on the metrics in place for the earlier “steps,” including same-day access to assessments and engagement in substance use disorder treatment, and metrics for CSB staff training.

Representatives from a large, rural CSB (New River Valley CSB) and a small, urban CSB (Colonial Behavioral Health) spoke about their experiences implementing STEP-VA. While both directors pointed to advances in the state’s behavioral health system facilitated by STEP-VA (such as encouraging the deployment of evidence-based services), both directors also discussed the significant workforce challenges facing their agencies, as well as the administrative costs involved in data collection and billing managed care organizations. Jennifer Faison, Executive Director of the Virginia Association of Community Services Boards, said that CSBs are “laser focused” on workforce issues; she also pointed to the importance of ensuring that funding reflects the true costs of providing services and that outcome measures account for the interconnectedness of the “steps.”

Alternative Custody Workgroup Begins to Consider Recommendations

The workgroup studying options to increase the use of alternative custody arrangements for individuals who are subject to an emergency custody order (ECO) or a temporary detention order (TDO) held its third meeting on August 9. This workgroup was established by legislation passed during the 2022 General Assembly session in response to the continuing stresses on law enforcement agencies posed by delayed admissions to inpatient psychiatric care. In keeping with the structure of previous meetings, several stakeholder groups kicked off the meeting with presentations outlining their perspectives on issues under consideration. Discussion at the August 9 meeting spotlighted stresses faced by emergency physicians and staff and Community Services Board (CSB) pre-screeners.

Dr. Joran Sequeira, representing the Virginia College of Emergency Physicians, discussed difficulties in the ECO/TDO process manifested in emergency departments, including physicians’ frustration that individuals subject to TDOs may wait for hours without receiving treatment, concerns about difficulties managing patients subject to TDOs, and the limitations inherent in the medical TDO process. Ryan Dudley, Director of Crisis Services for the Hampton-Newport News CSB, conveyed challenges facing CSB pre-screeners. Lengthy waits for the resolution of cases are exacerbating workforce shortages, and pre-screeners often must operate without knowledge of the length of the state’s current wait list or how it is prioritized.

Heather Norton, Assistant Commissioner at the Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services (DBHDS), provided an overview of the state’s efforts to transform its crisis system, based on an approach that encompasses a crisis call center, 24/7 mobile crisis, and crisis stabilization facilities such as crisis receiving centers. National research indicates that a majority of crisis calls for assistance can be resolved at the call center level or through other community-based supports, averting the need for higher levels of care. To provide opportunities to meet individuals’ needs without hospitalization, the state has invested funding in supporting crisis receiving centers, but more sites are needed to ensure statewide access; national best practices would call for one crisis receiving center per 250,000 people, and Virginia’s rural geography may necessitate additional sites.

Based on discussions at previous meetings, DBHDS staff circulated a set of potential recommendations for review and comment. The draft proposals include a suite of recommendations regarding alternative custody, to include expanding the current alternative transportation contract, expanding the existing program providing a stipend to off-duty law enforcement who maintain custody of TDO patients, and expanding mobile crisis and site-based crisis services. Other recommendations include clarifying statutory language governing the ECO and TDO process; developing additional training for magistrates; and developing standards for re-evaluating patients during the ECO and TDO process for possible diversion to more appropriate care options.

The workgroup’s final scheduled meeting is August 25.

$2 million available in latest grant round for open space projects

The Virginia Outdoors Foundation is making $1.8 million available from its Preservation Trust Fund program and $200,000 from its Get Outdoors Fund for grants that protect open space for public use and other public benefits.

Preservation Trust Fund grants for the fall 2022 grant round will prioritize projects that result in significant public access, but may also be used for projects that protect exceptional conservation values such as water quality, historic and cultural resources, wildlife habitat, and high-quality farmland and forestland. A real estate interest must either be acquired by a local government or conveyed to VOF to be eligible for funding, and protection must meet the requirements of Virginia’s Open-Space Land Act. There is no minimum or maximum on Preservation Trust Fund grants, but historically they have averaged approximately $150,000.

Get Outdoors Fund grants may be used to fund projects that create, protect, expand, or enhance access to open space in underserved communities. Proposals up to $25,000 may be considered. The Get Outdoors Fund requires pre-applications to be submitted through VOF's online grants portal by August 10, 2022. Invitations to submit a full application will be issued within one week of pre-application receipt. No more than 25 applicants will be invited to submit a full application. If an organization has been awarded more than $5,000 in a past grant round, the previous project must be completed before an applicant may reapply. Past applicants must submit new pre-applications. A resubmitted pre-application without significant revision will not be considered. In addition, applicants may not apply more than twice with the same concept.

Full applications for both programs must be submitted online using our grants application portal. Full applications must be submitted by August 22, 2022. Grant awards will be announced sometime in October. Eligibility requirements, sample applications, and other materials may be found online at https://vof.org/ptf and https://vof.org/go. VOF encourages potential applicants to contact staff prior to applying to discuss eligibility and seek guidance on producing a successful application. The VACo President named a reapportionment committee in 2021 and the committee began the process when the census data was available. The committee presented its recommendations to the VACo Board of Directors at its meeting on June 4, 2022. The Board of Directors accepted the recommendation of the committee which would add three seats to the VACo Board of Directors consisting of one rural, one suburban and one urban area seat. The Board also endorsed a proposed Bylaw amendment which would allow the three seats to be added to the Board of Directors. The proposed reapportioned map of regions and the Bylaw proposal are as follows.

Blue Line Solutions

VACo Premier Partner Blue Line Solutions offers a TrueBlue Highway Safety Program that can be implemented in School Zones and Construction Zones, where data has shown that drivers are unaware that their driving behavior is not in alignment with public safety. A key element of this program - drivers are first educated through several media outlets, that their driving patterns through these zones need to change to keep their communities safe. The education has had a profound and positive effect on driving behavior.

Please contact Greg Hogston for more information: ghogston@bluelinesolutions.org or 276.759.8064 or visit https://bluelinesolutions.org.
